Allied Waste offers a full range of service options and equipment to efficiently and economically meet your waste collection needs. Front-end loader containers work best for businesses that generate low-density waste materials that can be compacted, such as office waste and food products. We maintain an inventory of containers in a variety of sizes and offer flexible collection scheduling. Let our waste services professionals recommend and design a waste collection system specifically tailored to meet your needs.

The versatile containers used in this waste collection system range from two to eight cubic yards and are often combined to give customers the right capacity for their waste volumes.

Many containers are designed with low-profile, top-loading configurations. Other containers open from both sides and from the top, as well. Special sizes and types of containers for unusual accumulation situations, easy rolling casters for mobility, and varying heights for dock-level loading are also available.

Front-end loader containers will not leak and are odor- and rodent-proof, provided the lid is kept closed. And since waste is stored in all-steel containers, the risk of fire hazards is reduced.
